Arrested and Placed in Prison He Appealed to Consul General Lee-His Expulsion from the Island.

Washington, August 5.-The papers in the ase of Alfredo H. Hugnet, an American called for from the state department prior to the adjournment of congress, have just been printed.

The case is a claim for $75,000 for damages for imprisonment and some important points are involved.

Hugnet resided in Hayana and was arrested on September 6, 1896, on the susplcion that he was connected with the revolutionary junta at New York. It is asserted on behalf of Hugnet that no evidence was found in the house against him, but that the Spanish police, in order to make a charge, slipped an insurgent paper upon a center table in his residence, doing the work so awkwardly as to be detected by Hugnet's daughter.

He was taken to prison and kept in close confinement for seventeen days, when he was expelled from the island, coming to the United States. His liberation was the direct result of a protest on the part of Consul General Lee, replying to which General Weyler made the point that the imprisonment was justifiable as an act of war, re gardless of treaties. The captain general's language on this point is as follows:

"The country being in a state of war and therefore, an constitutional guarantees suspended, there has been no violation of any precept of the Spanish fundamental code nor of the law of criminal proceeding to make the arrest and profonged incummunicado sala person." 'After he landed in Florida Mr. Hugnet filed his claim for damages, his attorneys asserting that it is more urgent than an or linary claim for the loss of the property. The last of the documents was dated July 17th, and it did not appear that the state

He had just been informed was learned positively tonight that ternor Hastings has had men in the the Creek region for two weeks past keep him posted on the condition of of the departure of the bleachers and the decision of the girls in the press rooms to go out, but seemed to consider the infermation merely incidental, and was at COMPARISON BY TARIFF EXPERT work looking over an account with the names of a number of operatives upon it. At first the president of the big plant was reticent and seemed not inclined to discuss the situation. His replies to quer-Evans, the lariff expert, was made public today. The following are some of the com-parisons, in addition to those given last week ies as to what settlement could be reached were monosyllabic and rather curt. It was evident that he deprecated and notoriety which might come to him personally or to the corporation.

> He was asked whether he regarded the situation in a serious light or whether he accepted it as merely a passing incident.

This appeared to arouse the volubility of the president and he waxed interestingly communicative. The tone and tenor of his talk showed that he had but the most generous feeling for the employees. who went out. He believed that they labored under a mistake and that if they had seriously considered the situation they would have been loath to leave. He had no idea of making the girls work side by side with the negroes. It was not in his mind to establish social equality, much less to embarrass his girls by putting colored women at the same desk with them. He had taken pains advertising for white women. Some had answered, but they had left, stating that the time was too long and weather too hot. It was a busy season and work must be done. His only recourse was to take the labor nearest at hand, and this was obtained by employing the colored women.

This I consider a good showing 'for the financial standing of the dispensary, notwithstanding the charges of corruption made by the enemies of the dispensary."

This afternoon the board devoted itself to purchasing liquors. All the beer comes from Georgia this month, 200 barrels being ordered from the Acme Brewing Company, of Macon, and 100 barrels from the Atlanta Brewing Company.

Fifty barrels of corn were ordered from the Kohn distillery, Montgomery, Ala. Baltimore and Philadelphia houses got orders for upward of 400 barrels. These colored women were in an entirely different department from the white girls, Why the girls up stairs had left and who had provoked the discord he did not know, but he was of the opinion that the great majority of those who had left the mill labored under a mistake.

Mr. Elsas explained all of this, and afterwards pointed the way to the room where the negro women were at work.

The Cause of the Trouble. The colored women who were the imm "You people will have your differences," said Judge Calhoun, "and I sympathize diate cause of the trouble were seated in with you, but then you must respect the law. There were six or eight industriously at work folding up the bags If this boy was older I would inflict a heavier fine on him," said the judge, turn-and placing them on proper piles. "Now, you see," explained Mr. Elsas, 'these women were down stairs, and up above them on the next floor were the girls who first quit work. Except for that back stairway there is no connection between the two departments, and there could be no communication between the operatives in the two places." "Do you believe that negro labor will finally supersede white labor in southern factories?" was asked Mr. Elsas.

"That I can't answer," he replied. "I am not discussing general topics now. Those negroes there are reliable, and 1 have some who have been with me for twenty years.

"I have no desire to oppress any of the people, nor am I forced to take the advice of the Painters' Union, which passed resa lutions declaring that I should be compelled to associate with negroes as my ocial equals. I do not mind having my dinner served by a colored cook, but I don't say that they should sit down to my ta-

"Taking it as a whole," continued Mr. Elsas, "these people are happy, and they are paid well for their work. The young lady who seemed to be the spokesman yesterday acknowledged that the operatives made from $5 to $8 a week. I believe that the average is $5, and some of them make $8."

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Textile Union, with all the friends of the strikers and the strikers themselves, met in the hall of the Federation of Trades at 621/2 Peachtree street.

H. Watley called the session to order, The room was filled with anxious-looking people. The men had doffed their working garbs, as the dignity of the occasion and the importance of the hour demanded their best clothes. The smart frocks of the girls and their gaudy coloring lent an effect to the picture that was striking.

Montgomery, Ala., August 5.—(Special.)— Hon. Charles E. Waller, of Hale, who was among the foremost of the administration advocates in the last legislature, has created something of a sensation the state by leading the fight in Hale and Greene counties against the enforcement of the back tax assessment law. In the report of a recent speech before the court of county commissioners of Greene county he is quoted as saying that he wa opposed to the law and intended voting against it until he was approached by those high in authority who assured him that the law was not intended for general enforcement at all, but only for the cities and mining centers where large amounts of money, bonds and solvent credits were teld by capitalists and wholesale dealers-that it was not intended to and would not be enforced in Greene and Hale counties, nor in any part of the black or agricultu-ral belf—that he would or should have the appointment of the commissioners and could see and know that the intentions and purposes of the law should not be violated.

Mr. Waller's admission comes as a sur prise for several reasons. It is regarded as curious that any lawmakers or persons in authority should have contemplat ed a general law which would be enfor in some sections of the state and ignored in others. The declaration also comes political surprise, because it carries with it an inference that there has been rupture between Governor Johnston and Mr. Waller. The latter is the political leader in his section and has always brought his counties up for Johnston in the state conventions. He lives in Gov-ernor Johnston's congressional district, and it has been reported for some months that the gentleman from Hale was a pos-sible candidate for congress: It is now said that he will likely be a candidate for governor to succeed Governor Johnston three years hence Where the good politics in the apparent

When questioned about his becoming a candidate for governor of Alabama on the populist ticket he said that the time was too far off to discuss that question. He said that the populists would, however, hold an early convention and would make a strong fight in the state next year during the gubernatorial campaign. He said that he favored the new tariff bill with the exception of the sugar schedule, and he be United States and bring through the prosperity. BIG DECREASE IN BIBB TAX RETURNS

Notes and Accounts. LAND ACREAGE MANIFESTS AN INCREASE

White Voters Are Found To Be Only Four Hundred More Than Black Voters in the County.

Macon, Ga., August 5 .- (Special.)-Bibb county's tax returns for 1897 show a decrease of $357,606. The figures were made public by Tax Receiver Anderson this morning, and they convey the first news of the big slump. The total returns are $15,777,078, as against

Tax Receiver Anderson considers the showing a good one, in view of the general depression and the tendency of all property wners to reduce their values. There are 15,717 more acres of land re-turned for taxation this year than were returned last but the total land valuation is $35,994 less. The increased acreage this year is explained by the fact that a great many land owners failed to state the number of acres on their returns last year, simply giving the total money valuation. Thus, while the full acreage did not appear, the land paids taxes just the same.

The returns how a decrease of 778 in the polls of the county and also that white voters in Bibb have a majority of only 442.

The total number of polls is 9,508; whites, 4,975; colored, 4,533.

There are 78 lawyers, 57 doctors, 11 denists and 12 bank presidents and money enders in the county. For convenience, the following consolidated returns are given:

The Coming of Democracy. The democratic party of York county. Pennsylvania, met in convention last Tuesday and adopted a set of ringing resolutions, indorsing the Chicago platform, and deno melag

The democrats of York go on to declare that the millions "whose allegiance to their party remains unshaken and who still follow with increasing love and confidence William J. Then follows a complete indorsement. of the currency plank of the Chicago platform, and a scathing denunciation of the republican party and the legislation recently enacted.

If any reader is inclined to ask why we give editorial prominence to the stirring declarations of the democratic party in a Pennsylvania county, the answer is that these declarations go to the root of the matter and show that a wave of democratic enthusiasm is preparing to sweep over the country. The democrats of York set an example that may well be followed by all democratconventions. They do not mince their words; they do not hedge and equivo-cate; they do not hide their purposes and desires under a string of platitudes. On the contrary, they go straight to the mark, with a vigor that every true democrat will relish and applaud

The Constitution is of the opinion that the country is on the eve of the greatest democratic revival ever known in the history of the republic. The time is ripe for it. All the signs and symptoms point to it. The people, harried by hard times occasioned by the taxes the gold trust has levied, have come the end of their patience. The tariff monstrosity, enacted for the benefit of the trusts, is the last feather that will break the camel's back. When the voters of the country discover, as they shortly will, that tariff taxation will only add to the distress and woe of the peo-, not all the money that Hanna can muster will keep them in line with the republican party.

We are about to witness one of those epoch-making revolts that sometimes cur in the history of parties, and it is to be on a scale commensurate with the reforms to be wrought and the wrongs to be righted. The greatest questions, the most vital issues of modern times are awaiting settlement, and they can only be settled by the people acting through the democratic party.

An Embarrassing Agitation. We have no doubt that if Mr. McKinley could have foreseen the result of his recent appointment of negroes to offices of trust in the south, he would have stayed his hand. We do not recome from the whites, nor to the hypocritical objections urged by those who have but recently become converts to the republican creed. These are manifestations that could not by any possibility affect the composure of the pres-

But there are other developments of a ore disturbing character, such as Mr. McKinley could not possibly have Word goes to Washington from all parts of the west and north and east that the negro republicans of Georgia and the south are not the only tomtits in the glade. This word is sent | way is, in round numbers, $190,000,000by the negroes of those sections—the old guard—who have had rings put in their noses to prevent them from giv-ing trouble in the pasture where fed-undertaking. eral patronage grows. This contingent signs of agitation all along the line. If southern negroes are to be appointed to important offices where opposition to the republican party is almost over-whelming, why should not the negroes of the north, especially in states where they hold the balance of power, enjoy of the usufruct? The point is so well taken that if the negroes continue to insist on it, as they now seem likely to do, the appointments already made will hurt Hanna rather than help him. The negroes have a good deal of human nature, and, in addition, are apt imitators. Like the whites, their appetite for office grows by what it feeds on, and the recent appointment of negroes to responsible offices in a state and section where it can do the republican party no good, may do it much harm, has whetted their hunger to the point of ravenousness.

What will Mr. McKinley do about i in Ohio? In that state the negroes practically hold the balance of power. By voting with the democrats in large num bers, they would put an end to the Hanna programme. On the other hand, should the agitation now progressing produce the results the negroes desire, a great many white republicans would retire from the party in disgust. The argument among the northern negroes is that if the president can afford to appoint negroes to office in the midst of a population hostile to such a proceedhe can certainly afford to appoint them in a republican state where solicitude and love for the negro race have figured for many years in the creed of the party. The situation is very interesting, and would be more interesting still if the negroes should insist on receiving a pro portionate share of offices in the repubican states. But this they will probably not do. The northern negroes have been subjected to a long course - They of very severe training. been made the victims of a much keener race prejudice than that which ex-They have bee ists at the south. forced to submit to indignities that the southern negroes have never been subjected to in the matter of earning their living, and we have no doubt that the epublican leaders can easily find a way to put a quietus to the agitation that is now progressing. At the moment, however, Mr. McKinley must find the discussion of the subject somewhat embarrassing.

> "A Little More Non-Committal.;" A gold organ remarks somewhat du biously that "each time Secretary Gage speaks about the currency, he seems o be a little more non-committal and

Why Not Open the Chattahoochee! Chicago, always wide awake and pro gressive, is now moving on two great engineering schemes, each of which has as its object the control of transportation rates as a leverage to secure the continued commercial supremacy of the western metropolis. One plan contemplates the coastruction of a waterway connecting the Mis sissippi with Lake Michigan through the Chicago canal. Considerable progress has been made on this great undertaking, and the completion of an open waterway, navigable from Chicago to New Orleans, connecting the great lakes with the Gulf of Mexico, is but a question of time-and not a very long

The other project on which Chicago s working is the construction of a waterway which will give direct connection between the great lakes and the northeastern Atlantic coast. This plan contemplates the use of the Erie canal, or the opening of some other waterway which will give a direct interior water route between Chicago and New York. to the natural protests that have and thus secure for each of these two great commercial centers in their dealings with each other the advantages of reduced water transportation rates. This proposed improvement was submitted to the attention of congress, and a committee was appointed to look into the feasibility of the scheme. The committee recommended the appropriation of the sum of $150,000 for the purpose of making preliminary surveys; and within the next few weeks a special commission to conduct these surveys will be ap-pointed by President McKinley. The estimated cost of the proposed water-is very much disturbed, and there are if the wideawake commercial interests of the city of Atlanta should put in motion the question of opening the Chattahocchee river for navigation from Atlanta to the Gulf of Mexico, is it not reasonable to suppose that the govern-ment could be induced to give the question its serious attention? Would the effort necessarily be a fruitless one? The removal of the obstructions which close the Chattahoochee river to navigation between Atlanta and Columbus could be accomplished at a cost which would be a mere bagatelle as compared with other interior river improvements which have been undertaken by congress. While, of course, it is not proposed to float the navy of the United States on the broad bosom of the Chattahoochee to the very gates of Atlanta, it is seriously suggested that, at a very reasonable cost, the river could be opened to ordinary navigation for freight purposes, thus giving Atlanta the benefit of water rates in freight transportation -a saving of one-third-which in a few years would aggregate many millions of dollars, and which would immediately give to Atlanta the same advantages which are possessed by other southern cities, over Atlanta, in being enabled to control freight rates by pointing proudly to the fact that they have cat-boat connection with ocean or gulf ports. With a few locks covering the fall between Atlanta and Columbus, and with a few shoals and other obstructions removed, there is no reason why small freight steamers should not bring merchandise from the Atlantic, through the gulf, up the Chattahoochee and dito the city docks at Bolton; and even if, with such facilities, the quantity of merchandise so handled is not vast, the very existence of such a route would answer the purpose of its construction in the effect it would have on freight rates.

Congress has committed itself to propositions of far less importance, and has appropriated vast quantities of money for enterprises of infinitely less merit.

A Rejuvenated Empirs.

Undoubtedly the Chinese empire is beginning to experience in more effective measure than ever before the reforming touch of modern civilization. Though still jealous of its oriental faith, the empire is gradually exchanging its eastern habits and peculiarities for some of the more progressive characteristics of the occident. This result is largely due to the recent tour of the famous Chinese viceroy, Hung Chang, through Europe and the United States. Nor is it claiming too much for the observant Chinese to bestow this credit upon him. While in this country most of his time was occupied in asking questions; and, without discourtesy, it may be said that America has never known a more inquisitive visitor than Li Hung Chang. With the practical ideas which the oriental diplomat succeeded in gathering while on this trip, he has since infused new vitality into the sluggish arteries of the empire and conferred upon China the most lasting benefit which she has ever received.

But enough of the viceroy himself. Within the last few days information has been received from China stating that the empire has at last decided to adopt the European and American government postal system. Up to the present time the mails in China have been transmitted by individual corporations which have not only failed to isfaction in the delivery of letters, but which have charged the most extortionate rates. Under the new system, which goes into effect shortly, the postal rates will be reduced considerably, while the delivery of the mails will be carried on as rapidly as the facilities of the empire will permit.

But in other respects, as well as in the adoption of this new postal system. China is giving distinct signs of awakening life. When the trans-Si berian railway, which Russia is now building, with its numerous branches running into China, is completed, the empire will experience such a forward movement as it has never before exhibited. With its population of 400,000,000 souls the rejuvenated Chinese empire may yet give shape, in some measure, to the destinies of the globe.

The New York Sun is not blind to the growing influence of the principles enunciated in the Chicago platform and, in spite of its bitter and pronounced opposition to those principles, it is forced to observe that the fight is by no means over. "The mass of the demperatic party stands upon the Chicago platform," says The Sun, "and is not in a mood to allow itself to be tricked by timid or half-hearted counsels. The attempt made in Maryland to evade the issues will only result in irritating and weakening the democracy of that state As for Mr. Bryan, the heartiness with which he is everywhere welcomed seems to show that there is no diminution in the loyalty of his party to him. He stands for something."

The rumor of a quarrel between Mr. McKinley and Mr. Hanna remains to be verified. There will be no quarrel so long as Hanna doesn't ask Mr. McKinley

Even the republican senators didn't want Mr. McKinley's currency commission.

The Wolcott embassy will get along very well so long as Rothschild continues to set up the beer.

The weather is calculated to have a wilting effect on Mr. Hanna.

Hooligan's Ride. Did iver ye hear av the Hooligan bike, An' how Hooligan learnt to ride On the boulevard so straight and hard In the soight av his promised bride? Twuz a shiny day in the month av May

The finest you'd iver see; An' all the gurrls, with their wavin' curls, Will be kissin' their hands to me!"

So he left his hod on the blazin' sod, An' he sez to his hod: "Lay there! For divil a cint do you bring for the rint, An' niver a cint to spare!"

An' bought him the best there be; in' called to his bride on the boulevard: "Come-look at the bike av me!" An' is that you, Hooligan?" sez the bride

An' away he wint to a bicycle yard,

"An' what dy'e mean, ye Jack! If iver ye straddle that thing to ride 'Twill be pitchin' ye on yure back!" 'Divil a bit of it," Hooligan sez;

"If iver I git ft still.

sez he, "Whin I come a-sailin' by: An' the gurrls will say, as I speed away:

'That Hooligan takes me eye!' Thin he got astride av the thing for the ride: "Oh, it's alsy!" Hooligan said;

But it wobbled around all over the ground An' landed him on his head! Thin Hooligan rose wid a broken nose

Where the bike had laid him flat; 'Are ye drunk?" says he (to the bike, you see) "To be treatin' a man like that?"

But he brought it up to the curbstone there, While his bride wuz havin' a fit; An' he saz: "If it stands till I spit on me hands-The divil!-I'll ride it yit!"

Thin again a-straddle he wuz av the sad-(Ye'd laugh till ye most fell dead!) An' again the bike got crazy-like,

An' tumbled him on his head! An' his legs got tangled within the spokes An' Hooligan's chance looked slim; As he floundered round on the rocky ground,

With the bike on top av him! What are ye laughin' at?" Hooligan sez

To the bride, 'Ye crazy goose! Ye'd better be bringin' me down an ax To cut yer intinded loose!" As quick as thought the ax wuz brought ('Twuz pitiful hearing him beg!) But he hollered back as the bride give a whack: "Ye've chopped a hole in me leg!"

But finally, after so long a time, (While the spokes wuz flyin' about) The bride cut down to Hooligan's head. An' Hooligan-he crawled out!

Thin he bate the bride for cuttin' his leg, (Though she didn't mane it at all,) An' he swung the ax like death an' tax. Till he chopped the bicycle small!

Thin he thought of his hod on the blazin' An' he says to the bike: "Lay there!" An' he made a call at the hospital, An' he's goin' to be out next year!

my place than you can shake a stick at and I'll undertake to sweep the whole state for $15 a year!"

'And $300 for stamps!" "That should be canceled instantly. The janitor should carry all the letters!"

It does look like Hanna is the power be-hind the owned. It seems odd the city should be asked to raise the bicycle tacks.

The injection of Senator Tillman's per scnality into the senatorial canvass i South Carolina as the champion of the dispensary system, opens a new era in the politics of that state which will en-Stormy as has been the past, the future gives promise of being still more so.

Revolutions bring with them evils as well as blessings, in that they owe their success to some dictator who, seizing the occasion, becomes the oracle of the people, and so long as his will is theirs there exists no occasion for the assertion of independence Under the shadow of this resistless leadership there is developed a race of small men-small in comparison with the over powering giant, and small in that they be-come but echoes of his voice, not strong enough to lead themselves and too small to come out in opposition. This seems to be the situation in South Carolina just now. No man can reach public office who antagonizes Tillman, and while a few would like to add the opposition vote to their strength, it must be by indirection and not by a bold declaration of opinion.

Tillmanism rests upon two pillars-the ne popular, the other political. Both of these foundations were made clear in his Abbeville speech, when he disclaimed, with candor, being a politician. In 1876 the people of South Carolina, under the old regime, threw off the incubus of republicanism. This was the South Carolina which cheered the storming of Sumter, an era which is now but a chapter of history. The dream of satisfaction which followed was na-tional, but the leaders took no note of the fact that a new generation had grown up generation which had its own hand upon the plow handle and did not use the proxy of a slave. The appeals of these iving people fell upon ears too busy in stening to narrations of the dead, and it was not until the people came up to the seat of power with Benjamin Ryan Tillman at their head that the dreamers found that their reverle had been too long continued. Thus far Tillman was not a politician. but was the Saul who stood head and shoulders above his fellows, and was accepted as their natural leader. That leadership came from the people of South Car-olina—the white people—for Tillman, to his credit be it said, never so far surrendered his caucasian pride as to beg for recognition from the blacks.

Once in power politics became inevitable and by accident, as Mr. Tillman acknowledges, the policy of state control of the liquor question was resolved upon. It is unnecessary to go over all that has happened since, save to say that, despite the organized opposition of the cities and the mis-taken course of the old regime, Tillman was established as the political as well as the popular leader of the state and the dispensary became a fixture.

That the dispensary system of South Carolina has been successful in throttling the liquor business even the enemies of Tillmanism are forced to admit. Its most effective work was in divorcing the selfishness of individuals from the sale liquors. Thus the issue was brought down to the plain question of drunkenness gainst the home. Outside of the there was not a single man who had a dol-lar invested in the liquor business, by which fact it was shorn of its strength. "I have been running on this train thirty-nine years," said Uncle Billie, the wellknown conductor on the Blue Ridge. men drink they will do so on the train, and used to have to eject men on every train the dispensary law was enacted ave not seen a single Since I have not seen a s drunken man on my train?" Such testin might be multiplied a hundred fold. Un-popular as the law might have been to certainty. The dyspensary system had enemies in judges and other officers entrenched in power, both in state and nation. It triumphed over the obstacles of state officials, but met reverses in the federal court. There is a good deal of reason for believing that Judge Simonton has not been altogether judicial in his treatment of the dispensary law; in fact, whenever he has had discretion it has been used as a weapon to strike down Tillman, rather than as a con-servator for the state. It is freely charged that in order to make out a plea of non-effectiveness against the law, the United States revenue authorities have winked at moonshining, which has had pretty free rein for four years past. Whether the Mc-Kinley officials will keep up this relic of those who wanted to profit by the sale of liquor, its most effective feature was its provisions for the detection of violators.

They made the enforcement of the law a Clevelandism remains to be seen. So much for politics and gossip, now for the future. The people of South Carolina have experienced the benefits of the prohibition which the dispensary law has given them too long to give it up. Liquor healers might as well understand that fact first as last. Their day is over. The barroom will never again raise its accursed head in the Palmetto State. The only discussion that can come up is one as to means—whether by the dispensary system or by legislative prohibition straight. The liquor interests will assist in any struggle to overturn the existing law, hoping to get something out of the scramble, but they will find that a rocky road is ahead of

There can be no doubting the sincerity of Senator Tillman in his advocacy of the maintenance of the dispensary law. His course in injecting that discussion into the senatorial canvass, while not intended to take sides in that canvass, is, nevertheless, intended to force the candidates to cominto advocacy of the home as against the open barroom. There is only one side to uch an appeal to the conservative farmers of South Carolina. The state campaign of next year is already pitched upon it by the declaration of Senator Tillman that he would quit his place in the senate and enter the race for the governorship in its interest. This declaration will force all the gubernatorial candidates next year to take that side, otherwise Ben will be in the race again, and then there will be such rock throwing as has never been seen be-

Prohibition has had its dreamers and enthusiasts before, but in Ben Tillman it has had its first practical statesman who has been able to give it legal enforcement. P. J. MORAN.

It Still Masquerades. From The Macon Evening News.

This morning's Macon Telegraph gives prominence to a communication from J. M. Wilkinson, a Valdosta republican, at--tacking the democratic party and making the unvarnished statement that negro domination is preferable to association with Debs, Altgeld and Tillman.

The communication is so vicious and outrageous in its tenor, so bitter in its denunciation of the democratic party and so revolting to the decent white people of Georgia that it would have be jected by any democratic paper. But The Macon Telegraph publishes it, evidently with a great deal of satisfaction, for it is thoroughly in line with The Telegraph, except in one particular-Wilkinson admits his republicanism, while The Tele graph still masquerades under the cloak of democracy.

Rucker took the oath of office yesterday afternoon under Clerk Colquitt Carter, of the United States district court. He will open up the office this morning with all but ten of the old force. Andrew Jackson Spence has been appointed chief deputy. He was appointed to a deputy collector's place four weeks ago and stationed at Nelson, Ga. The appointment was secured by the republicans, and his promotion was doubtless in view at the time.

Other appointments will be made this morning. Colonel Trammell left for Dalton last night immediately after turning the office over to his successor. His men bid him a sad goodby at parting. The old force of deputies presented Mr. Trammell with a fine silver service as an

All of the resignations were addressed to Collector Trammell, the deputies refusng to even send their resignations to a negro. Every one of the ten men walked out last night. Deputy Tatum may resign this morning, but he will probably be the only other officer to go.

The resignation of the ten men gives Rucker fourteen appointments. Only four of these are absolute appointments, but he can recommend to the civil service commission the others. He has the appointment of chief deputy, which has been filled, a clerk for Atlanta and two stamp clerks, one at Macon and enother at Savannah. He will make the appoint-ment of the Atlanta clerk and the outside stamp clerks this morning, and will probably name the men for the deputies and storekeepers' places made vacant by the resignations. These latter will be emergency appointments and may or may not be made permanent. Rucker was kept busy until a late hour last night signing his name to receipts and papers. Mr. S. A. Darnell, formerly district at-torney, has furnished The Constitution with a statement in which he says he was not present at the meeting of the repub-

The matter of a new school to both high schools and the effect on each school will be the same. They school building was brought up but no ac will serve to enable children to advance tion was taken on it.

The committee on rules had no report to make at present and will not be heard with more rapidity than at present and will make the standard of scholarship in the from until the next meeting of the board. The Girls' High school would also be mmittee on boundaries changel and the business department would be the most important of the two departments now in that school. Mr. Smith, who made these recommenda tions as chairman of the committee or rules, spoke of them to a Constitution reporter last night and gave a brief outline of what was advecated and what changes would be recommended to the board. The committee on rules will submit a rule which will provide for semi-annual promotions in the grammar schools. This will enable children to go to a higher grade twice a year, if they are able to stand the examinations. At present a child in one of the gramma chools is compelled to stay in that grade until the end of the year, when he is allowed to stand an examination and win promotion. In presenting the recommendation the committee showed that in the northern cities quarterly and semi-annual promotions were used in the schools and held that it is absolutely necessary the system used here should be reformed so as to bring i up to the progress of the other school sys-tems of the country.

Then the matter of corporal punishment was touched on and it was recommended that corporal punishment be abolished in the high school. A rule will undoubtedly be reported for the purpose of doing away with corporal punishment and it is not unlikely that a motion will be made to abolish it in the grammar schools. The high school was spoken of and here the standard of scholarhip, the committee thinks, should be higher, and it should not be so that just any boy could get into it. It should be a reward for a young man's high standing in the grammar schools. The school should also be complete, was argued, so that a young man could step out of it and begin life's battle without the need of any further education. It was recommended that a boy be not allowed to remain in one grade two years in the high school. If he could not keep up with the rest he should not be allowed to remain. The diploma should be won by hard work and application to study.

One of the most important changes spoken of was in the Girls' High school. Here it was recommended that the school be changed so that the system would be a de-partmental system. Here, it was said, not so many young women should graduate from the literary department. They should be put through the business department, so they would be sole to go to work and support themselves.

Special attention is to be given the business department and it should be enlarged so that in it would be found every facility for a young woman to obtain an education which would enable her to earn her living, as is necessary with so nany who attend the school.

These recommendations or suggestions, as told of by the chairman of the committee on rules, were listened to by the board with great interest and it is understood that the board is in favor of them. If they are adopted it will probably take place at the next meeting of the board, which will make that session one of great importance.

MISS SPEER HAS NOT WEDDED. After the License Was Obtained No

Minister Could Be Found. marriage of Dr. Samuel Delances Hicks, of Washington, and Miss Anna Aurelia Speer, of Atlanta, which was told of yesterday in a special to The Constitution from Norfolk, has not occurred.

The marriage license was obtained Wednesday afternoon from the ordinary in Norfolk and the young people immediately left the office for the residence of a minister, who was to perform the ceremony. After visiting the homes of several prominent ministers, all of whom were absent from home, the young people decided to postpone their wedding. They were joined yesterday by the father of Dr. Hicks and are now at Virginia beach. From Norfolk the following story was told last night by wire: Norfolk, Va., August 5 .- (Special)-An interesting sequel to the reported marriage of he saw approaching. Another train was Dr. Samuel Delancey Hicks, of Washington. to Miss Anna Aurelia Speer, of Atlanta, Ga., developed tonight. The couple have not been married yet, notwithstanding the fact that a marriage license was obtained by hem on Wednesday, the same day being designated therein as the date for the ccremony, and their friends stated that they had been married. The couple called on Rev. Dr. Lloyd, or St. Luke's, and Rev. R. H. Jones, both Episcopal ministers, and on Rev. Dr. M. B. Wharton of Freemason Baptist church, but found none of them in.

After waiting some time for each of the reverend gentlemen, they repaired to Virginia Beach, and were joined by Dr. Hicks's father. They are still at the beach and still single. Just when the ceremony will take place has not been decided, but it will probably be a more conventional affair than was at first intended.

Dr. Hicks, who formerly resided here, has been married before, but is divorced. His first wife is still living.

A plant will soon be started in Atlanta o manufacture acetylene gas generators and the same company will make Atlanta its headquarters and distributing point.
The invention is a new one, invented by Mr. Joe Pelham, and is claimed by the inventors and prominent chemists to be the most important invention in this line stance. When County Commissioner Jack Spalding voted for the courthouse deal with the city, he says, he did so from a sense of duty, and was not influenced because of the fact that he owns property in the immediate vicinity. The card of Alderman Woodward referring to the fact that Commissioner Spalding owns the let across Pryor street from the courthouse has evoked a warm reply from the commissioner. Mr. Spalding states in an interview with The Constitution that he voted to have the jall placed where the new courthouse is to be erected, doing so because ne believed it a good location, notwithstanding the fact that his property would be damaged if any property was inso badly needed Commissioner Spalding furnished the following statement for publication last night, which is a reply to the card of Alderman Woodward: "In this morning's Constitution you pubwis in good condition and that 325 tickets of admission have been issued up to date. The 20th day of August was named as the lished an interview with me about the new courthouse and the existing trade between the county and city as to the old court-house. He goes to the trouble of giving the book and page where and Formwalt street schools were reported as being in bad sanitary condition. The fire insurance on several of the buildings was reported as having expired and this my deed is recorded. He could have saved all this trouble by looking at either the city was referred to the finance committee with or county tax digests. He seems to think that I meant to personally criticise him as one who wanted to sell such a lot. It was doubtless inexcusable in me, but really at the time I Miss N. E. Crawford, second grade; Miss Miss Rosa Waters, who was dropped from Roach street school on account of non-residence, was reinstated in her old place, overlooked this dignitary and was thinking of the real owners of such lots. If I even thought of Alderman Woodward it was only as a manifestation, a surface indication the city.

SPALDING REPLIES TO MR. WOODWARD

MR. SPALDING MAKES ANSWER

trade with the city. "Bear in mind, however, that the real issue is, shall the people of Atlanta and Forrest avenue and Porier's alley be made the boundary between Ivy and Calhoun street schools. The boundaries for the Fulton county have their tax burdens grievously increased by this trade being broken up? If Alderman Woodward really and candidly objects to the conditions in the bond, and is not using that as a blind, I am satisfied the county will meet the city in a fair spirit about it. ago by the city, Mayor Collier said yes-"The reference to the five-year belgian block contract was with a view of show-ing the incensistency of Mr. Woodward in now opposing the courthouse trade, ostensibly for the reason that it was illegal to bind future councils, when in that in stance he advocated and voted for a con tract that bound future councils for five years. The contract itself was duly advertised and let to the Venable Bros., because they were the lowest bidders. The purpose of the reference was to still further demonstrate Mr. Woodward's inconsistency, not to question or criticise the manner of letting the contract, which was a mere incident of the transaction and entirely regular."

WOODWARD WILL GO TO COURT

The Alderman Will Fight the Courthouse Purchase Trade.

He Objects to the Terms of the Pur chase and Says the Trade Cannot Be Carried Out.

Alderman James G. Woodward has laid down a challenge to Mayor Colher and the city council. He says unless the courthouse purchase deal is amended so that the city can sell the property if it desires to in future, he will ask the courts to grant an injunction restraining the city from carrying out the deal.

The alderman says he has fully decided on this course, and unless the council re considers its action in the matter he will go to the courts to break up the trade. Mr. Woodward will take no action in the matter until after the next meeting of the council. He will wait for the report of Judge Anderson, city attorney, as to the legality of the trade and his opinion as to the liability of council members who vote for the purchase.

Alderman Woodward's resolution calling for a vote of the people on the subject of purchasing the courthouse on the install-ment plan, together with the whole question, was referred to Judge Anderson Monday, and at the next meeting of the council he will submit a report covering the issues involved. He has stated to the council that the trade is technically illegal, and even a life tenure. But the city has to live there always to own it. This is the one main point in this contemplated deal that I am opposed to, and propose to fight to the bitter end, even to the courts by injunction, if it is necessary. If this transaction is a matter of so much importance, why not eliminate the conditions from the title, and when the city has honestly paid the fifth installment of $30,000 give her a clear and unencumbered deed? It is remarkably strange that no one will offer to defend the real cause of this controversy. As I have already stated, that while I am not in favor of that lot, on account of its size, location and foundation for a building, I was willing for it to be property purchased if the city could get a clear and unencumbered title to it. That is a very good way to create a fund by which the city can eventually get a beatting city hall. But there is nothing in it if she is forever prohibited from disposing of it.

"I am not posing in this matter as a martyr, neither am I attempting to make any grand-stand play, but I am conscientiously doing what I think to be my duty, and I flatter myself that I have got the nerve to stick, without fear or favor to any who have shown their hands, or that are likely to in the future.

"Remember the question at issue. Cut out the infamous conditions in that proposed title, or refer the matter to a vote of the people, or that courthouse will never be purchased, if the law will prevent it."

Snyder was asked about the cutting affair and seemed very much surprised that the boy had told it on him. "I never saw that kid until I struck this town. I am not wanted in South Carolina, as I only passed through that state from my home, which is in North Carolina. The kid don't know what he is talking about. I never told him anything, as I have been with him only a short while. I came to Atlanta to see my brother-in-law and to see if I could get work to do. I am a weaver and intended to go to work here in some of the cotton mills."

The officers here will hold Snyder until something further is heard from the South Carolina officers. It was stated at the police barracks last night that they had received some sort of a story about a man being stabbed, but as Captain Manly was out of his office it was impossible to find the letter and identify the man held. DETAILED SUMMARY OF THE DAY'S WORK

Western and Atlantic Railroad Company Western and Atlantic Railroad Company v. Morrison. Before Judge Reid. City court of Atlanta.

Lumpkin, P. J.—1. Where, in the trial of an action for damages against a railroad company for personal injuries, the evidence as to the company's alleged negligence was conflicing, it was legitimate for the plaintiff's counsel to argue to the jury that the faliure of the defendant to introduce and examine as a witness one of its employees who was present at the time when the injuries in question were sustained was a plaintiff's counsel.

2. If, in view of the entire evidence, it was incumbent upon the court to give to the jury any instruction with reference to the defendant's failure to examine such

If more evidence were needed to establish it, the defense would fail for that reason; if more were not needed, it could not, under these circumstances, be required. No unfavorable inference or presumption could arise from mere failure to examine the witness, and such failure was not legitimate matter either for comment by counsel or adverse charge by the court. 2. If, however, the granter after such improper delivery ratified the same, the delivery was effectual to pass title from the grantor. Whether or not in the present case there was ratification as claimed, was a question which the judge ought to have submitted to the jury instead of solving it himself by granting a nonsuit.

3. "A grantor cannot deliver a deed to a grantee or his attorney as an escrow. Such a delivery would be equivalent to adding a parol condition to the instrument. To make the deed an escrow it should be delivered to a third person, to be by him delivered to the grantee upon the performance of any required condition." The agency implied in the above quoted language is agency in behalf of the grantee to outain possession of the instrument for the latter, plied in the above quoted language is agency in behalf of the grantee to obtain possession of the instrument for the latter, because in a broad sease every depositary of an escrow is the agent of both parties. Whether in the present case the depositary was or was not the agent of the grantee named in the escrow, to procure its delivery from the maker, was also a question for the jury.

4. In view of the law laid down in the first headnote, the question of possession in this case is immaterial, for the reason that the parties claiming under the grantee named in the escrow cannot be protected.

The younger set in the social world seem to be having a great deal of pleasure these summer days, and there have been innumerable trolley parties, lawn fetes and dancing parties where the belies have been danty maidens in short frocks, their hair tied back with ribbons and bows galore upon their shoulders. The beaux many of them have not yet known the joys of their first dress suits, but they have sweethearts, wear button hole bouquets and are called "Mr." by the bewitching little creatures that inspire them with their first love. There is coquetry, little jealousy and rivalry already among this youthful element of the beau monde, but their joyful laughter overcomes, all and they are first learning the lesson in social joys and social sorrows that will edicate them for these learning the lesson in social joys and social sorrows that will educate them for those that await them in the real world that will come with their maturity.

LILY WHITES WORRIED.

They Are Afraid That a White Republican Party Is Doomed.

The lily white republicans are about to despair of ever seeing a white republican party in Georgia. They say that their old popents, the democrats, are playing a smooth game on Senator Mark Hanna.
In carrying Georgia for Major McKinley
Mr. Hanna-had to make many liberal promises to the negroes. The Morton-Reed-Allison combination had money to throw away to beat the Ohio major. Hanna had monev. too, but he preferred to pay in promises so far as they would go. Some of his colored friends took the Morton boodle and the Hanna promises. Others worked both sides for money.

Rucker, Lyons, Pink Morton and Deveaux were all promised good berths by Hanna, say some of the republicans.

They say that Deveaux's pull on Sena tor Hanna comes from two sources—his aid in the last campaign and his position as vice chairman of the republican state as vice chairman of the republican state central committee. So long as Colonel Buck remains in Japan and out of Georgia Deveaux is the only person with the proper authority to call the committee together.

The lily whites say that if Deveaux is appointed collector of the port of Savannah it will blast the hope of building up the white republican element in the state. Some of them say that democrats are encouraging the president to make negro appointments. pointments.

The lily whites say that they were making some headway in Savannah until the Rucker appointment was announced. Now they are fearful that their missionary work will be completely undone.

where the new city hall, yet incomplete, although having been started more than fifteen years ago, was inspected. The visitors were shown many attentions and courtesfes and the stay in the City of Brotherly Love was pleasant indeed. In New York the party spent three days. While they spent considerable time in looking after the mammoth courthouse in the metropolis, they paid more attention to the investigation of the plans of the great office buildings, as they desired to secure information upon this line. They took the position that the courthouse was not only place for the holding of courts, but was o be the home of all the county offices and for this reason they wished to get a good idea of the plans and specifications. From New York the commissioners and architects went to Pittsburg and inspected the $2,500,000 courthouse there. They also visited the shops in which the jail work is being done, spending a portion of the day looking at the work that had already been accomplished. They found the work in an advanced stage and were satisfied with what had been done. Cleveland and Toledo were visited the same day, about six hours being spent in each place. The courthouses and public buildings were visited and a general tour of the cities made. Chicago, with her massive buildings and metropolitan structures, consumed two days' time of the tour. The Masonic tem-ple was inspected, as well as all of the big buildings of county and state government.

of the Committee.

THE FARM IS A VERY POOR APOLOGY Report Will Show That Some Radical Change Should Be Made in the

Manner of Teaching. The committee from the general assembly appointed to examine the expenditures of the landscript fund of the state uni-versity has finished its labor. Members of the committee returned to their homes yesterday, all impressed with the fact that the fund is properly expended, but that the department of agriculture had been somewhat neglected, and the model farm left in a rather uncultivated

It is practically settled that the fund will remain where it is as far as the report of the committee is concerned. Be fore going to Athens the majority of the members of the committee were of the opinion that there was great injustice to the state in the manner in which the money from federal sources was expended. They did not think that the university was acting in good faith on the agreement by which the appropriation was obtained.

The whole matter was sifted thoroughly Dr. H C. White showed where all provisions were met and pointed out what the university was doing in the way of in-structing the students in the science of agriculture.

It was shown that the authorities of the Institution were aware that for a long time the facilities of the farm were inadequate and that they had tried to dispose of the property with a view of bettering condi-tions, but that they had found it impossi-

It was shown that the faculty of the college and the trustees realized the in-sufficiency of the farm in every way, and for some years had been trying to secure better land. Dr. White and President Hammond, of the board of trustees, both told of the appropriation, how it came and what was done with it.

As to the number of students who took the course of agriculture it was shown that only two selected this degree, but it had been opened to all and that it required as much work to get the B. A. as it did any other degree. The committee was thorough in its work and looked carefully over all expenditures. Its report, which will be filed at the next session of the gen-eral assembly, will be interesting, and while it will recommend radical changes in the present method of teaching farming it will state that the fund is properly expended and should remain where it is

TONE WAS FEVERISH

Stocks Rallied Strongly During the Last Half Hour.

DISPLAYED HEAVINESS EARLY

Increasing Earnings of Southern Roads Strong Influences for Advance. Violent Break in Silver.

New York, August 5 .- Today's market was an inversion of yesterday's in that it displayed a heavy tone during the most of the day and railled strongly during the last half hour. The day's net gains were almost all in the last half hour, waile on yesterday a half hour's profit-taking at the close wiped nearly all the earlier gains. There was a feverish tone to the trading today, and erratic variations, which, com-ing after yesterday's freedom in speculative buying, was pointed to as significant of the culmination of a buil movement. There were evidences of powerful manipulation in the market to further the unset-tling tendency and to cause a reaction, but the heavy short sellers of the day aparently lost confidence in their theory of a reaction and started to buy back their stocks on a fast rising market. This shortcoming was the main cause of the strong rally at the close. There was nothing un-favorable in the general situation which they could avail themselves of, the crop prospects and the decline in foreign ex-change continuing to favor a rise. In addition to this, some of the reports of rail-road earnings for the fourth week and month of July, especially those of southern roads, were strong influences for an advance. The Louisville's increase in earnings for the fourth week over the corresponding period of last year was $1\cdots$, 139. The stock responded to the statement, which was published in the afternoon, rising over a point and influencing the whole market. Other increases for the fourth week were Chesapeake and Ohio, $63,649; Missouri Pacific, $77,600; Kansas and Texas, $29,589, the latter figure being also com-pared with the largest previous July week in the company's history. The buoyancy displayed by some of the individual stocks, such as Tobacco, Laceled, Gas and Sprits, also operated against the efforts at reaction. On the other hand, the reaction in the wheat market due to profit-taking and ito some falling off in foreign buying orders, affected the western railroad socks.

the wheat market, due to profit-taking and to some failing off in foreign buying orders, affected the western railroad stocks sympathetically! The heaviness in some of the most active industrial stocks made the vulnerable points of attack by short selling. Sugar was attacked with vigor, and reached 2% from the high point. Consolidated has suffered from fear of obstruction to the scheme of amalgamation of gas companies and slumped 7 points. The average decline in the market worked by the bears was nearly 1 per cent, and in Chicago Gas and Northern Pacific preferred was more the latter being especially affected by continued London selling. London sold during the day about 25,006 shares of all stocks. Early declines were aimost recovered and net gains achieved, though they were for the most part small. The Grangers and Vanderbilts responded to the rally in a conspicuous degree.

The total sales of stocks for the day were 567,895 shares, including Atchison preferred 13,278. Chesapeake and Ohio 3,040, Burlington 27,450, Erie 5,915, Louisville and Nashville 21,352. Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Stock Letter. Atlanta, August 5.—The test applied to the stock market today was a noteworthy one. A flood of realizing sales met the opening, and the bears were encouraged to renew aggressive operations. The reactions averaged close to 1 per cent, and exceeded that limit in Chicago Gas, Northern Pacific and Sugar. A sharp rally followed the early depression, and in the first part of the afternoon trading slackened and prices again gain in earnings of Louisville and Nash-ville for the fourth week of July turned the entire speculation, and there were eager purchasers for accounts. Louisville and Nashville responded to this by an advance of over 1 per cent. The grangers displayed renewed aggressive strength with Burlington and Quincy in the lead. Chicago and Great Western was very New York Central was very strong on traffic prospects, advancing nearly 2 per Tobacco was advanced over 4 per cent. and held more than half of the gain on talk increased dividends. Chicago Gas was unsettled onder realizing sales. American Spirits stocks were strong on new Venezuela extension of company's business. Sugar was attacked by operators seeking to cover a large line of the stock retained a net gain in spite of these attacks.

Consolidated Gas suffered a break. The market closed active and strong.

VIOLENT BREAK IN SILVER.

No Such Decline as Yesterday Witnessed Since June, 1893.

New York, August 5 .- Silver bullion experienced today the most violent break of the entire season's decline. In London the price dropped one-half penny per ounce. from yesterday's price, selling at 25% pence per ounce, against 271/2d a month ago. The New York price fell to 55% c bid, a break of 11/4c an ounce from yesterday and of 41/4c within a month. At this price the bullion value of a dollar is a trifle more than 43c. London dispatches ascribed today's great weakness in silver to liquida-tien by New York holders of the metal. No such decline as today's has been winessed since June, 1893. The Indian mints were closed to free silver coinage on June 26th of that year. On the news silver bu!!!on fell in London from 37½d per ounce to a price below 30d, but it rallied sharply ton Letter. New York, Augurt 5.—Wheat may fluctuate several cents daily, stocks ebb and flow in their quotations and the outlook for more encouragement in all lines of business continually grow, but the "staple" for more encouragement in all lines of business continually grow, but the "staple" has no friends except for a quick profit on the long side. It was said that Liverpool did not respond to our improvement yesterday, as Texas was offering Europe largely of new cotton. Some said cotton declined here because wheat did, but the stock improvement this afternoon did not count. Whether cotton is to participate later on in the enhanced values in those markets depends upon contingencies that may or may not arise in the near by. European and local sentiment momentarily is adverse to cotton. A Texas correspondent who reports to Washington for their monthly crop reports conditions in his section, advises us that he reported to them a loss there during July of 24 points. If this foreshadows conditions generally in Texas, it means an average by the bureau next Tuesday nearly as low there, perhaps, as last year on the 10th of August, when it was 69.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, August 5.—(Special.)—The cotton market was very quiet and a few points lower today. Liverpool this morning changed but little. Prices there advanced about ½ point. This was not considered encouraging, and our market opened 2 points down. Local rains fell at four Texas points, and caused a slight further easing, but the temper of the local operators continued bullish and the business was confined chiefly to them. When, therefore, the weather map reported extreme high temperatures in the south they bought the market up several points. When at its best a promunent house threw a large block of cotton upon the market and the advance was lost. January opened at 7.15, declined to 7.13, advanced to 7.17, again gave way and closed at 7.13 to 7.14 with the tone of the market steady. Reports from the Atlantle and gulf states continue satisfactory, but those from the west and southwest are by no means favorable. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter. west are by no means favorable.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, August 5.—The dry goods market is firm and shows daily gains. There is no diminution of the enthusiasm of the buyers, but today's uncomfortable weather has brought about light sales over retail counters. These are reflected in some falling off in jobbers' business, and a generally depressed store trade in these quarters. But at first hand the market is decidedly more active than heretofore and on a stronger basis. Bids for extra print cloths, spots and speedy delivery, continue to be registered at 2½c, but these are steadily refused by sellers. Odd goods are firm in all grades.

New York, August 5.—By Associated Press: Today's cotton market has been quite featureless in the face of fairly satisfactory Liverpool advices, opening steady with prices unchanged to 2 points lower and then, within narrow variations, showing a generally weak undertone during the forenoon under moderate selling pressure in the absence of outside speculative support and a temptation to test the short side of the account a little further on the part of the local oprators. Prics following the first call declined 2@3 points. During the forenoon crop accounts, while conflicting, were generally sized up as rather favorable. There were reports of light rains south of Sherman, Tex., and in a few other central Texas points. At 12 o'clock the market showed a net loss of 2@3 points with sales limited to 32,000 bales up to that hour. Subsequently the selling movement subsided, and in the early afternoon the loss of the morning was recovered, and the market showed a firm undertone on later reports of intense hot weather, not only in the gulf stated, but in the Atlantiès as well. The markets, having eased off late in the day under light realizing, closed at a net decline of 2@5 points.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Atlanta, August 5.—The market today has again been duil and without special feature. Liverpool advices this morning were fairly satisfactory, and our opening was unchanged to 2 points lower than yesterday's close. Subsequently prices turned easier, declining from 2 to 3 points on reports of light rains south of Sherman, Tex., and also a very light shower at McKinney yesterday afternoon. The selling movement, however, soon exhausted itself and prices have railled to yesterday's closing. The weather is extremely hot in the Atlantic and guif states, and unless drought is soon relieved in southwest the prevailing hot wave will naturally hasten damage. While the crop has thus far withstood the drought much better than anticipated, complaints are beginning to be more numerous. General weather developments in Texas during the next few weeks are regarded as the key to the situation. New cotton is beginning to move more freely in the southwest, and offers for immediate shipment have already been received in this market from Texas. Immediate shipment, however, would not mean arrival of cotton in New York in a less time than thirty days, and perhaps a still longer period would be required for cotton to be delivered. The stock of cotton in New York warehouses is now only 53,199 bales, which is only 2,400 bales larger than smallest stocks were 75,875 and in 1885 174,433. Our supplies, therefore, will be extremely limited before they can be, replenished. Reports from the dry goods districts are very encouraging. It is stated sales during the same period for the past they ears. The Fall River situation seems encouraging and indications favor an appreciation in the value of manufactured goods. New York spot sales 701 bales; midding 8c. Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Atlanta, August 5.—The trade in the cotton market again continued of a limited character, with the fluctuations contained within a narrow range. The market appears to be steadily held, as it is argued by a great many traders that the large speculative feeling enjoyed by the stock and grain markets emust soon impart a similar feeling in the cotton market and an upward tendency result. These reports from the dry goods trade show some improvement in price, but we rather think it the result of a closing down of certain mills, which gives promise of diminished stocks from the large unsalable totals they have been carrying for so long a time, than to any actual active demand. The feature in the market today was the selling of some contracts against purchases of actual cotton. It is this character of business the trade is looking for, as it will serve to enliven matters as soon as it devalors into active prepartions. Silver made to the contractions of the propertions. Silver made a sensational deciline of $\frac{1}{2}d$, being quoted at $25\frac{1}{2}d$, the lowest on record. Crop reports continue of a mixed character. In Texas complaints of dry weather still prevail. The close was quiet, $3$ to 4 points off.

New York, August 5—A few showers at Cuero. Huntsville, Brenham and Houston caused a lower opening and increased the bearish feeling in the trade that the drought would be broken by the needed rains within the next two days. Our local trade continues to feel bearish over the prospect of receipts coming to market, with the current belief among spinners that we shall have an enormous crop and lower prices. Our telegrams from Cuero report the rain at that point to have been local, the shower not extending two miles from twom, and crops suffering badly from the drought. The market reacted from the opening, but the general temper of the trade is so bearish that they expect lower prices in the face of the local improvements in buinsess and the excellent demand for cotton goods. A large line of cotton was thrown on the market during the afternoon, causing a lower closing, but now complaints are again reaching us from Texas.

SENSATIONAL DROP

Foreign Advices Indicated a Somewhat Tired Feeling After Their Late Climb.

Market Lacked Speculative Support and Wheat Declined 3c Per Bushel-Other Markets Followed.

Chicago, August 5.-The demand for cash wheat was better here today than at any time since the recent advance set in, but the market lacked speculative buying, and with this powerful support withdrawn, the have was also very influential. Corn was weak from on better crop outlook and declined %c. New Oats lost %@%c. Provisions were weak, declining 12½@22½c, the latter in pork.

The foreign wheat market at the opening sent cablegrams indicating somewhat of a tired feeling amongst them after their late exhausting climb. As a consequence, there was a drop at the opening of from 1% to 1% in September wheat. Although the buying against puts was heavy, it did not prevent it dropping another Ic per bushel to 76c per bushel or 2½c below the closing price of the day before. About 45 minutes before the opening Liverpool made a de-cline of ½d per cental before trading be-gan here and Berlin reported a drop of ½c per bushel. Very few of yesterday's cabled offers had been accepted, and but for the taking of five boatloads of No. 2 spring by Antwerp that i ad been offered by a Chicago house, no foreign acceptances could be heard of here. Pyramid builders preferred to stand aside and see could be heard of here. Pyramid builders preferred to stand aside and see their top-heavy buildings topple over before the jarring of the weak cables. The selling out yesterday of the leading line of long wheat in this marke; has much to do with its collapse this morning. The decime here brought into play a host of arresting orders for cash, both here and at the seaboard. New York reported sales for export up to 12 o'clock of about 15 boatloads. Aithough exporters in Chicago said they could sell very little by making direct offers to Europe, they were during the forenoon inundated with bids from the seaboard for No. 2 spring wheat, and while they disposed of several hundred thousand busheis on bids of that kind, it was as nothing to the quantity marked. One and three-quarters cents for September was paid for the least desirable of the No. 2 spring in store and 2½c premium for some in favorite houses. Chicago receipts were 149 cars, against 151 a year ago. Of today's receipts 17 cars were new spring. The quantity inspected out of store was 181,500 bushels. Minneapolis and Duauth got 241 cars, against 327 on the corresponding day of 1856. The total receipts at western markets was 829,000 bushels, against 556,699 bushels a year ago. Exports from the seaboard were equal in wheat and flour to 305,000 bushels. Closing cables reported Liverpool lower than the close yesterday. Paris was somewhat higher for flour and unchanged for wheat. While nearly 400,000 bushels cash stuff was sold here, buyers of options grew scarcer and the market finally declined to 75%c for September, railying to 75½@%c, the net decline being 3c. september opened 1½@1½c lower at 77½@77%c, sold between 77½c and 77%c, closing at 17½c 77.%c. No oce not previously short wanted to buy any corn. Longs were anxious to find sold between 77%c and 77%c, closing at 77%c.

No one not previously short wanted to buy any corn. Longs were anxious to find other shoulders to which to trunsfer their burdens, and fresh lines of shorts being put out were more in evidence to cover corn already sold. The weather was all that could be desired. In view of such prospective additions to the present enormous country holdings of old corn, the acceptances of yesterday's offerings to country dealers were very heavy, and the sales against such purchases made in the pit were one of the depressing influences of the day. The lowest prices of the day were current near the close. Receipts were 922 cars and export clearances 525,627 bushels. September opened %c lower at 27%c, sold at 27%c and at 27%c, the latter at the close.

bushels. September opened %c lower at 27½c, sold at 27½c and at 27½c, the latter at the close.

A big business was transacted in oats, and the market was a very lively one all day. Liberal liquidations of September wheat was the chief cause of the decline in prices. The Price Current stated that the crop would be much larger than anticipated. This helped the bearish tendency. Receipts were posted at 566 cars, of which 293 cars were new and 131 of the contract grade. Withdrawals from store 1,057 bushels. September opened a shade lower at 17½c and sold off to 17c, which was bid at the close.

Provisions: were weak from the start to the finish. The drop in corn had something to do with the decline that occurred, and heavy receipts of hogs here and in the west was another influence that pulled down most of yesterday's advance. Lard lost all of the previous day's 17½c gain, and ribs all but 5c of the similar rise made the day before, pork retaining only 2½c of the $8.07½, the value it held at the close yesterday. Receipts: 33.000 hogs received here, Kansaa City got 14.000 and Omaha 13,000 head. September pork opened 20c lower at $3.10, sold at between $4.30 and closed at $8.07½, september lard opened 5c lower at $4.50, sold off to $4.32½c, closing at $4.3°C, 4.37½c. September 1950 opened 5c lower at $4.50, sold off to $4.32½c, closing at $4.3°C, closing, with sellers, at $4.55.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat setween 24.30 and sellers, at 34.85.
Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat 52.00 corn 750, oats 470, hogs 26,000 head.

been endeavoring for some time to catch the top. Those who were not fortunate enough to sell yesterday did not allow the break over night of about 1½c per bushel to discourage them, but, on the other hand, they took advantage of the weak feeling and offered freely, and in the absence of much foreign buying for speculative account holders began liquidating, which depressed the market 3c per bushel from yesterday's close. The news from the seaboard rather indicates that foreigners were again good buyers in a cash way, as 100 loads are reported for export, but for once it had no visible effect on the speculative market, as offerings continued large, and all outside American markets seemed to be suffering from liquidation. Liverpool closed 1 to 1½d lower, while Paris was unchanged, with Antwerp off 1½ centimes. Private cables, however, reported a heavy feeling in Paris after the close with some decline on the curb. Clearances were moderate at about 200,000 bushels. If there is really as large a demand for export as the sales of the past work work work and erate at about 200,000 bushels. If there is really as large a demand for export as the sales of the past week would indicate, and especially those of yesterday, this decline should encourage large buying for that account, and in case it does the bulls may be in possession of the market again, but should the reverse be the case and foreigners show a disposition to sell, it is quite likely that yesterday will prove high day on this bulge and that the new receipts of wheat, which are coming to the primary centers more freely, will have a depressing influence.

corn suffered a further decline of about le per bushel. Holders were the principal sellers on the breaking of the drought west, and the decline in wheat. Cash men look for very heavy receipts of old corn in the near future. Buils have nothing of encouragement at present.

The weakness in grain and a lower hog market at the yards were productive of a lower range of prices in provisions. Packers and holders were the sellers. LARGEST ON RECORD. Exports for the Fiscal Year Show a Heavy Increase.

Washington, August 5.—Corrected tables about to be published by the bureau of statistics in connection with the monthly summary of finance and commerce will show that the fiscal year ended June 6th was the largest in the history of domestic exports, the value of which reached $1.02.-001.40. The next largest was the year 1892, when they amounted to $1.015.732.011. The increase over exports of the preceding year amounts to $168.800.813. There has been a considerable increase in the exports of domestic manufactures. Comparing these with the year 1892—the largest previous export year—when they were valued at $155.10.027. of domestic manufactures. Comparing these with the year 1892—the largest previous export year—when they were valued at $153,510,337, or 15.6 per cent of the whole, the year 1897 shows that they amounted to $276,357,851, or 26.78 per cent of the total exports, which is an increase over the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896, of $47,786,583. The smallest previous per cent was in 1890, when the percentage of domestic manufactures for the month of June exported were valued at $25,873,294, an increase of about $4,000,000 over the same month of the preceding year, and the figures for June, 1897, are the largest for any similar period except the month of May, 1897, when the value of domestic exports amounted to $20,457,442, and the month of March, 1897, when they were $25,574,470.

The exports of agricultural products for the month of June were values at $38,998,895, as against $37,178,060 for the month of June, 1895, were 57.5 per cent and for June, 1897, were 57.5 per cent and for June, 1897, is against 30, 1896, the value of agricultural exports amounted to $598,879,297, or 66.02 per cent of the whole, as against $683,878,990, or 66.27 per cent of the whole for the year ended the total given as stated above amounts to $1,632,001,300.

York Kept It Rolling.

New York, August 5.—Amid great excitement wheat prices sold oft about 3e a bushel this morning. The crowd fully expected a repetition of recent bull conditions abroad, but were staggered at finding a decline of 1½d in Liverpool futures efter a slight opening advance. Backing this up were foreign selling orders and a 4 marks decline in the Berlin market. A stream of long wheat at once began to pour into the local pit, and increasing orders from outside speculators swelled the selling movement. The first sales were practically 3e a bushel under last night. September selling at 53½c, a sheer drop of 2½e from yesterday's top notch. From this point values pulled up to 84% on rumors of fresh export business to be added to the 1,520,000 bushels worked yesterday.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS Diagram Prepared Showing Growth

and Changes in Items of Resources.

Washington, August 5.—The abstract of reports of condition of national banks from May lith is accompanied by a diagram prepared jointly by the comptroller of the currency and the chief of the bureau of statistics. The diagram displays graphically the growth and changes in the principal items of resources of national banks from 1861 to 1896, inclusive. In October, 1864, the capital of the 508 banks amounted to $86, 800,000; a year later the number of banks had increased to 1,515 and the capital to $303,200,000. The capital graually increased to $504,800,000 on October I, 1875, the highest point reached until 1883, when it amounted to $509,700,000. The increase thereafter was gradual until after 1892, when the highest point was reached—namely, $648,500,000.

Loans and discounts reached their maximum between 1864 and 1880. In 1875 the amount was $984,700,000. In 1880 that amount was exceeded by $56,300,000. With one exception from that date to 1892 there was a rapid increase, and the highest point ever reached was in October, 1892—namely, $2,171,000,000. In 1893 there was a drop to and Changes in Items of Resources.

Wiley Rice was well known throughout the county and he will be remembered by the oldest citizens as a thrifty many of the oldest citizens as a thrifty farmer, who succeeded in accumulating a large estate through his own efforts. He lived at Buckhead. Just before he died, it is said, he made a will which gave to his six children share and share alike of his

A week or two before he died, it is said, his daughter, Mrs. Maudlin, persuaded her father to leave the home of Mrs. McIntyre, another daughter, where he had been liv-ing, and secured a promise from him that be would live with her. It is said that the aged man had in former years become addicted to the use of opium and as death approached his longing for the drug returned and he begged that he be given for this afternoon at 3 o'clock. the oplum to relieve his pain. The children now claim Mrs. Maudlin promised to pro-cure for him the oplum if he would con-

Mr. Rice consented to make the change.

It is said he became the guest of Mrs. Maudlin over the protest of the other members of the family. While in the home of Mrs. Maudlin, it is claimed, he was furn-ished oplum, although the family physicien had told him that if he ever again took the drug it would kill him. Shortly after his change of residence the old man died and his children say the use of the l

The former will was about to be probated, when it is said the new will was discovered, which had been made while he was at the home of Mrs. Maudlin. This will, which was the last signed, gave to Mrs. Maudlin all of the estate, excluding the other children entirely. Mrs. Maudlin now wants her will probated and the heirs who are excluded under the term of the will have filed a caveat in the court of ordinary claiming the will was signed because of the exercise of undue influence and while he was under the influence of

Just prior to the death of Mr. Rice he sold a large amount of his property to Mr. Burton Smith. Mr. Smith is now anxious to pay the purchase price of the property, but he does not know to whom to make the payment, as the pos-session of the estate is in doubt, and will so remain until the case now pending is

WILL FIGHT HIS WIFE'S WILL

Unique Case Comes Up Monday Before Ordinary Hulsey.

THE ALLEGATIONS ARE MANY

Israel Claims Wolfe, His Brother-in-Law, Is a Conspirator-Administrator Will Be Appointed.

The Aaron Israel-Henry Wolfe litigacomes up again in the court of ordinary next Monday morning before Judge Hulsey, the question having passed the superior court and the supreme court, com ing back again to the court of ordinary for

The story of the litigation is as lengthy it is interesting and savors strongly fiction, although the facts in the case are vouched for by affidavits and a large amount of sworn testimony. The case hinges upon the last will and testament of Mrs. Harnah Israel, who is said to have made a will just prior to her death, deeding away a large amount of property which was owned by her husband and which he elaims she had no authority to control. He now asks that her will be canceled.

The principals in the case are Aaron Israel, the injured husband; Henry Wolfe, the brother-in-law, who is named as the beneficiary of the will and who is to become the owner of a vast estate if the will should be probated and set up in court; H. B. Mount, a native of Mississippl, who is charged with conspiracy by Israel, and Mrs. Hannah Israel, who died Shortly after the death of Mrs. Israel husband claims he received a letter n H. B. Mount, of Mississippi, saying held the will of Mrs. Israel, which defrom H. E. Mount, of Mississipp.

The he held the will of Mrs. Israel, which delared that one-half of the estate was to become the property of Henry Wolfe, her lared savs this is the first intibrother. Israel says this is the first intimation he had that his wife had made a will and he declared that all of the property conveyed by his wife was not her property conveyed by his wife was not her property, but belonged to him individually.

Israel immediately fought the issue in the superior court, declaring the filing of the will would be a cloud upon his property and would cause endless and expensive lingation unless the court would set the will aside and declare it void. The decision of the superior court then went to the supreme court, and there it was decided that an administrator would have to be appointed before the question could be decided. The case now finds itself in the court of ordinary and an administrator will doubties be appointed next Monday afternoon after argument is made and the circumstances investigated.

Henry Wolfe is represented by Dorsey, Brewster & Howell and Arthur Heyman.

Aaron Israel is represented by Mayson & Hall and Hammond & Hammond.

Dr. Ryder's Insurance.

The fact that there was $5,000 insurance on the life of Dr. Ryder, who was recently lynched in Talbot county, has caused many to doubt whether the company in which the policy was taken would be compelled. the policy was taken would be compelled to pay the money. In the case of Dr. Ryder, his insurance was taken out in the New York Life, and it seems that the policy was written about two years before he was arrested, charged with murder. In this company a policy in persontestible. this company a policy is non-contestible after one year and the policy will no doubt be paid. It seems that no provision is made for hangings and lynchings, and if a policy is paid up there is every reason to believe that the money will be collected without any trouble.

BANKSTON'S CASE TO BE HEARD TODAY

Absence of Witnesses.

AN AGED FARMER MADE TWO WILLS SAY THE SECOND SHOT WAS FATAL ONE

Witnesses Will Testify That the Shooting Was Unprovoked and That Welch Had No Knife.

The preliminary trial of Officer Bankston for the killing of Charles Welch, which was to have taken place before Justice Orr yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, will not take place until this afternoon at 3

At the hour fixed for the case to be heard yesterday the courtroom was crowded with witnesses and interested spectators. Officer Bankston was on hand, as were a number of his brother patrolmen.

Up to 3 o'clock the prosecutor had not appeared and it looked as if the warrant would be dismissed for the want of prosecution. Mrs. Welch appeared, however, just before the case was called and Mr. Hughes, of the firm of Albert & Hughes, was present as her attorney.

Mr. Hughes asked that the case be postponed on the ground that several of the most important witnesses, who were members of a crew on the Georgia railroad would not be in the city until this morn-ing. He also stated that he had just been employed in the case and was not familiar with the details.

Judge Pendleton, representing Bankston, agreed to the postponement, stating that the defendant was in no hurry and was willing to give the state as much time as it desired. Judge Orr then set the case

There promises to be some lively develop-ments at the trial this afternoon, if the evi-dence is obtained by the state and the case they intended to make out is develop ed. They will attempt to prove that Bankston in killing Welch was guilty of mur-der and that he had no provocation whatever for using his pistol.

Mr. Hughes spoke to a representative of The Constitution yesterday afternoon in regard to the case and said that if the evidence of the witnesses he had talked with was as it appeared it would result in Bankston being bound over. There will be between twenty and thirty witnesses for the prosecution, many of whom were eye-witnesses to the casualty. The case to be made out by the state will be to the effect that Officer Bankston ar-rested Welch and that Welch broke loose from him and ran. Winesses will testify that after Welch broke and ran from Bankston the officer followed him. The man, it will be claimed, ran straight for-ward with the officer close behind him. Arriving at a box car, the prosecution will claim that here Welch turned to dodge be-hind it, and as he did so Bankston fired, striking him in the back. This is how the state will account for the flesh wound. When struck by the bullet, which it is claimed struck him in the back, the state will hold that Welch caught the side of the car and turned-facing the officer and was fired upon by him, the bullet entering the heart and causing instant death. It is claimed that there are witnesses who will testify to this and that Bankston was asked not to shoot to kill.

It will be seen that this is somewhat different to the case to be made out by the defendant. Bankston's statement says that the last shot was fatal, while the state will hold that the first two shots struck Welch and that the others were fired aferwards. The state will deny that Welch approached Officer Bankston in a menacing manner, carrying an open knife in his hand. On the contrary, it will be claimed that Welch was in the retreat during the en-Welch was in the retreat during the en-tire affair, and that he did not have an open knife in his hand. It will be clalmed that the only weapon he had on his person was a small penknife, which was in his pocket. The prosecution's version of the case makes it extremely interesting and from the number of witnesses on both sides it looks as if the case will not be completed intil late today.

The case, as viewed from the officer's side, has been given several times, and with it The father of Charley Welch will probably arrive in the city today, and will take part in the prosecution. It was partially on account of his absense that the case was continued. It later developed that the train crew will not arrive from Augusta until tonight at 8 o'clock and this may mean another postponement.

HOTEL FIXTURES AT AUCTION. Granite Hotel Furnishings Going Off

Under Auctioneer's Hammer. The larger portion of the interior furnishings of the Granite hotel were sold at public outery yesterday, and the remain-der will be closed out to the highest bidder today. The hotel has been closed for some time, and the proprietors, Messrs. Venable Bros., have decided that to keep them longer with the hope of securing a tenant would be useless.

Last February the hotel was opened for the first time since the close of the exposition, and had a life of only a few months. Since then it has not been wanted for a hostelry. for a hostelry.

The present sale is one of the largest auctions of its kind that has ever taken place in Atlanta. The complete furnishings for 148 rooms, with office, bar and cafe fixtures and all the kitchen utensils and parlor furnishings, are sold. It was first intended to sell the whole lot to one purchaser, but there being none, the articles were called off in lots to the highest bidder.

er. Yesterday the bedroom suites were sold. Everything was on the auctioneer's desk, from a pillow slip to a window shade. They were sold with much activity during the morning. In the afternoon the bidding slowed down until the furnishings of the room where Papinta lived during her marvel-ously popular run at the Trocadero were reached, which the interest was immediately manifest.
Other things were sold, but blankets and heavy quilts were a dead drug on the market. The sale will continue today.

LARGE COTTON CROP

Says Acreage Is Very Large and Price Will Not Be High.

MARKET IS SHORT ON RAW MATERIAL

Some Mills Have Been Forced To Shut Down for Lack of Material-Is in Great Demand.

The prospects are very bright for the argest cotton crop that has been raised in the history of the south. A larger acreage has been planted than heretofore, and he conditions have been exceedingly vorable. Recent reports from all parts of the south say that the farmers have forsaken other crops and are relying in localities almost entirely for the year's yleld on cotton.

In the Mississippi valley the recent floods had a tendency to increase the fertility of the soil, and in those places where the waters went down soon enough to the crop the farmers will gather a third more to the acre.

In Georgia the farmers have not heeded he words of the emigration agent, and the reports show more of the soil of this state to be covered with cotton than ever before. This year it is said that they have only planted enough outside of the cotton crop for home consumption. They are now much encouraged by the outlook of the market, and will send in their bales as soon as the crop is picked. None of the raw material is now on hand for present consumption, and many of the mills in the south and the east have been compelled to shut down for the lack of the raw product. Some of the mills in North Carolina have recently been forced to apply to the eastern markets for enough cotton to fill the orders they have now on hand. This has caused the market to have an apward tendency, and now stands at 7 cents. The first bale has not yet been received in Atlanta, although the crop is well advanced, and the indications point to a rapid influx when it begins to mature.

Colonel Maddox on the Crop. Colonel R. F. Maddox, who is closely identified with the cotton interests of the south, and is thoroughly conversant with the existing conditions of the crop, speaks very assuringly of a large crop and lower

"From what I can learn," he said yesterday, "the farmers have planted more cot ton seed and the conditions of the weather have been favorable for the growth and maturity of the largest crop in the history of the world, for the south is the cotton world to a very large extent.
"The first bale has been sold, I believe, in Savannah, but not in Atlanta. The cause of this is that we had a late spring and the farmers were behind time when they planted. In two weeks, probably, we wil eceive our first bale, and they will arrive "The acreage in Georgia is very large. The farmers know that cotton is the greatest paying crop in this state, and they act accordingly. When a good cotton year comes along like the present one, they can realize more than in any two years on any other crop. Much fertilizer has been used, and this has very much helped to mature an earlier crop than would have otherwise been.

"The whole south is in about the same condition as Georgia, and the yield in other states will be greater than heretofore. There is no way to explain this other than to say that it just happened so. The farmers want money, and they think this is the best way to get it. They have learned that cotton will net more to the acre in this part of the country than any other thing they can plant, and with ju care it will always yield well, provided Raw Material Is Scarce.

"The market now is short on the raw material, and it is in demand. The mills generally are well supplied. The eastern factories better than the southern ones. I understand that the raw cotton has been brought from the east to supply some of our southern mills. I believe that eventu ally the mills of the east will be brought to the home of the raw product. "Owing to the large production, the price will be correspondingly low. It is now at about 7 cents, or a little above. This price thus early in the season does not promise well for the price later on. I do not believe that the price will reach

10 cents this year.
"If it remains in the neighborhood of 7 or 8 cents, the farmers will be excellently repaid. They know this, and are not complaining. In fact, the people who live on the farms were never in a better condition. They have a sufficiency of all they need. They do not want money. They are not borrowing as in previous years, and I believe that this year when the crops are all laid by we will find that they have had marvelously prosperous year.

A Primary in Newton.

A Frimary in Newton.

A democratic primary election will be held in Newton county today to nominate a candidate for the house to succeed the late State Treasurer R. U. Hardeman. There are two candidates, Captain J. M. Pace, a lawyer of Covington, and Mr. Frank Hoyls, a farmer. The election will be held some time in August.

Colonel L. F. Livingston, who was up yesterday, said that it seemed to be an even race.

A Divorce Is Wanted.

A petition for total divorce was filed yesterday afternoon in the superior court by Franklin C. Helmns, who married Nancy J. Helmns in 1866. He says she has deserted him, after living in his home as his wife for more than thirty years. The desertion, he declares, has been without cause, continual and willful. The sult was filed by Attorney R. J. Jordan, who represents the plaintiff.

The Tabernacle Negro Discharged. Justice Foute vesterday dismissed the case against Joe Lee, a little negro charged with the stealing of some baskets from the Moody tabernacle. The evidence was not sufficient to convict.

NEW EVIDENCE * FOR FLANAGAN

Many New Witnesses To Swear That He Is Insane.

Flanagan Has To Pay His Own Witnesses and Is Unable To Do So.

Colonel Glenn Says That Candler's Decision Is Unusual and Unjust. He Talks of the Case.

New evidence has been discovered in the Flanagan case, and it is claimed by the condemned man's attorneys that they can prove by the most reputable people of Eufaula, Ala., that he was insane two

The defense claims that it can produce much stronger evidence than has been given at any former trial. Colonel Glenn states that he could get dozens of witnesses if he only had the money to bring them It is a little known fact that the case of Flanagan is one of the few where the prisoner is deprived of the right to have witnesses except those for whom he is While the state can spend a hundred thousand dollars in trying to hang Flanagan, he is not allowed a cent from the state with which to pay his witnesses, his attorneys say. Colonel W. C. Glenn says that in his opinion it is the first murder case ever tried in the state where the defendant was not given the privilege of having witnesses at the expense of the state. So far every witness for the defense has been paid by the defense or not paid

The state, however, has had many witof the state's money and the prosecution has not been hampered for lack of funds. The witnesses for the defense have been paid out of the money taken from Flanagan's person on the night of the killing. Colonel Glenn claims that it is manifest unjust that the state will not pay for witnesses for the defense. He says that when a poor prisoner is placed in jeopardy of his life he should at least be given the means of defending himself. "In my opinion," said Colonel Glenn, "it is the first capital case in Georgia where the judge has denied the accused the right to summon witnesses at the state's ex-

The law does not specify that the state shall pay for the defense's witnesses, but leaves that point to the discretion of the judge. The statutes read that the witnesses for the prosecution shall be paid by the state and that the witnesses for the defense shall be paid by the state when the principles of justice demand that the witlesses be present at the trial. The formal motion for a new trial is being prepared by Colonel Glenn's stenographer. It will be a lengthy document and will present many grounds for a new trial.

STOLE A HANDSOME DIAMOND. Negro Boy Hides a Valuable Stone in a Woodyard. Arthur McElroy, a little negro boy eight years old, was arrested yesterday morn-ng by Officer Luck charged with stealing a handsome diamond earring, the property of Mrs. Will Graham, of West End. The boy was carried into the detectives' office and there closely questioned by Detective Wooten. He finally acknowledged that he knew where the diamond was and went with the detective to the place. The boy had hid it in a corner of Middlebrook's woodyard, in West End.

McElroy was carried back to the station and placed in a cell, where he began to make hideous the night with his uncarthly yells. Half yelling and half crying he said that another boy had jerked the diamond of his hand and hidden it in the corner of the woodyard.

The diamond was lost yesterday by Mrs. Graham and is one of a valuable set. The little negro boy who claims he found the house of Mrs. Graham for several months.

FEVER IN WELL WATER.

Board of Health Advises Residents To Stop Using It.

At the meeting of the board of health Wednesday afternoon Dr. J. F. Alexander was instructed to issue a circular advising the people of Atlanta to stop drinking well

A number of cases of typhoid fever have been reported in the past week and the board of health ordered an investigation. Out of fourteen cases reported it was shown that thirteen of them were caused by using well water. The board of health then took action instructing Dr. Alexander to gathle. action instructing Dr. Alexander to advise them to use only hydrant water.

"There is no law of any kind that can stop the use of well water unless it is brought to us for examination," said Dr. Alexander. "In hearly every case where the chemists have analyzed well water it has been pronounced impure and the people ordered not to drink it.

"This is a bad season of the year for typhoid fever," continued Dr. Alexander, "and the use of well water is one of the agent of this disease. The hydrant w ater used in this city can't be beat in any city in the union and when the residents can ction instructing Dr. Alexander to advise in the union and when the residents car get the use of it and save themselves a serious sick spell they ought to do so. "I have a book that shows the averages of typhoid fever in the different cities for the past ten years. In this Atlanta has shown a great decrease in this disease since the new system of water works has been put in. The instructions I received from the board of health are for the good of the people, and they should take some notice of it."

THE "OLD SLAVE" GOES UP. The Publication Ceases To Make Its Regular Appearance.

The Old Slave is without a master. He has gone where paid-up subscribers do not follow, because they do not know the way. The Old Slave is a weekly newspaper published in Atlanta, or rather should be published, ever Saturday, but recently the proprietor and editor, R. H. Carier, has given up the enterprise.

The publication is a unique one. It is devoted to what its name indicates, and has for its principle to remedy his wrongs and gain his rights.

The leading article on the first page is to the effect that the old slave should be given a pension because of the fact that when they were freed they were thrown out on the world without friend or succor, and have been struggling for maintenance ince. Regular Appearance.

Carter has not been in the city for some time, and his erstwhile friends do not know whether he has intentionally skipped or gone off for his summer's rest. He left no word with his family as to his destination.

CENTRAL OBJECTS TO GRADE ROADWAY

Vice President Egan Confers with Council Bridge Committee.

Old Mitchell Street Viaduct Question Is Brought Up by Mr. Egan.

STATE REFUSES TO PAY FOR DEFENSE | SAYS THE ROAD WOULD PREFER A BRIDGE

Grade Crossings Are Dangerous and Should Not Be Established-A Conference To Be Called.

The Central Rallway Company will make strenuous objection to the establishment of strenuous objection to the establishment of a grade crossing over its tracks at Alabama street. This was made plain by Mr. John M. Egan, of Savannah, vice president of that company, before a meeting of the bridge committee yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Egan's road will take the postdon that a grade crossing would be described. that a grade crossing would be dangerous to life and property and that it would seriously interfere with the rights and privileges of the company, because it would cut their yard and prevent the use of the tracks for switching purposes. He said a crossing was a bad thing, and he outlined the position of the company by intimating that it would prefer to see a bridge built at Mitchell street than to esablish a grade crossing to extend Alabama street.

The discussion of the subject with Mr. Egan by Messrs. Camp and Woodward, of the bridge committee, and City Engineer Clayton, brought out the fact that all parties interested would prefer a bridge or viaduct at Mitchell street instead of a grade crossing to extend Alabama, and it is by no means unlikely that the movement will result in the reopening of the bridge question. Mr. Egan teld the com-mittee the city should not want a grade crossing because it would endanger life and limb and property. The reply of the committee was: "Well, give us a bridge at Mitchell street, then."

bridge question. It was taken up where it was left off several months ago, when the scheme to lower the railroad, tracks was suggested. The committee fold Mr. Egan the railroads had talked a good deal about viaducts and bridges and other vis-ionary schemes and then had deserted the city to hold the bag alone. The city wanted something done about the proposed improvement, and the committee said it was willing to act instead of talk. Mr. Egan came back at the committee by suggesting to it the propriety of the city making a counter proposition to that made by Mr. Comer and Mr. Spencer last spring. which the roads agreed to donate $25,000 toward paying for the bridge.

City Engineer Clayton said the roads had estimated the cost of the viaduct at $75,000. In his opinion that amount is insufficient He got out his maps of Alabama and Mitchell streets and the ground was inspected on paper. Mr. Egan practically told e h's road will oppose the esely discussed the bridge question, and roads will probably take up that sub-

Mr. Egan assured the committee that his road appreciates the demand and ne-cessity for a better crossing at Alabama or Mitchell street, and he promised to give the subject consideration. He will inform President Comer of the situation and of the desires of the bridge committee and city, and it is likely that a general con ference will be held on the subject at an early date. Mr. Comer expected to be in Atlanta this week, but Mr. Egan says h ters. Mr. Egan left last night for Savannah.
